FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Bayada Nurses Provides Support for Families in Pennsylvania

Mt. Laurel, NJ – July 27, 2009 – Bayada Nurses will take part in the 7th Congressional District Working Families Resources Summit on August 1, 2009. The summit will be held from 10:00 am to 1:00 pm at Interboro High School in Prospect Park, PA. The event, hosted by Congressman Joe Sestak, gives organizations like Bayada Nurses the opportunity to display the services they can provide to families in Pennsylvania's 7th District who may be struggling through tough economic times.

“Bayada Nurses offers care to people at home so they can stay in their communities and not have to move into high-priced facilities as they age,” said Carole McMahon, division director of Bayada offices specializing in adult services. “We also offer opportunities for health care workers, professional and non-professional, to re-enter the workforce and supplement their family income.”

Bayada Nurses has been providing home health care services to residents of Delaware County since 1988. A service fair will follow a panel discussion at the summit, and Bayada Nurses will have an exhibit table for those to network and learn more about home care services. The service fair will include other local resources for elder and child care, health services, and employment.

“Many families who have a special needs child may not know their options or they go it alone,” said Eileen Smith, clinical manager of the Paoli pediatrics office and alumna of Interboro High School. One Bayada Nurses client will be at the summit to try to thank Congressman Sestak for helping with insurance coverage for her child. Smith is happy to attend the summit and show the client that Bayada is there to support her. “By getting out there and being a presence in the community, these families may realize Bayada can be of some help to them.”
